"Our Assets of Debt"

—by—
SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

The Courier today introduces a new columnist to its readers, Samuel B. Pettengill. The column will appear at frequent intervals.

Mr. Pettengill is a graduate of Middlebury College (Vermont) and of Yale Law School, and served as Democratic Congressman from South Bend, Ind., 1930-35. He was a member of the Shannon Committee of the Lower House that investigated government competition with private enterprise, and throughout his service in Congress opposed encroachments of "Big Government," fought court-packing and other departures from constitutional methods. He declined renomination but campaigned on behalf of colleagues who were targets of the "purge" in 1938. He is the author of "Smoke Screen," "Jefferson the Forgotten Man," and "For Americans Only," and served as chairman of the Committee 1940-42.

Our Assets of Debt

Probably the biggest boob-bait now current is the notion that somehow we won't have to pay for the war. We are told again and again that the war has made us prosperous; it has given full employment; it has taught us how to be prosperous.

If so, it is a brand new variety war. But before agreeing that it is so, let us be as cautious as Mark Twain who said that when he got to the funeral of a mule he got at its head! So one will find that this war previous ones have accelerated in many lines (and reduced in others). Gunpowder, light on metallurgy and the iron. Napoleon made England the world's workshop. War does have its economic assets exceed its liabilities.

Let us explore some of this. We brag of a $140 billion "national income." But is it income? Or the liquidation of assets? Here is a son who inherits a farm, debt free, from his thrifty father. He then mortgages the farm and spends the proceeds. Is "income" as much as that of a brother who spends only as much as he makes that year—and a little of that?

What is America anyway? Is it anything at all except the very real estate Columbus found in 1492, plus the savings of 453 years presented by barns, homes, skyscrapers, schools, churches, factories, etc.? These, and the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the moral law whence these documents, and the intelligible of greater knowledge in the people's heads. Yet the war is mortgaged our physical savings host to the bill.

Is a mortgage an asset of the man who signs it? Just how does nation live on its debts? Take another squint at this beautiful national income. Part of it is taxes. For easy figures, say that the government collects $50 billion in taxes. It spends these billions on planes, tanks, and guns. The bills go into the pay envelope of soldiers and munition workers. So they are, in part, counted twice, once when earned by the taxpayer and again when the taxes are spent by the government. So we call it "income." If the government

"EXCELLENT" RESULTS CHALKED UP IN 500-PLANE STRIKE AT 4 KEY TARGETS IN THE MILITARY CENTERS OF JAPAN

Most of Huge B-29s Concentrate On Sasebo Naval Base

3RD RAID IN 62 HOURS

Marine, Army and Navy Pilots Tighten Aerial Blockade

By Gerard R. Himmelsbach
L. N. S. Pacific Cable Editor
American Superfortresses, continuing their campaign of fire-blanking the industrial and military centers of Japan, were credited today with achieving "excellent" results in their latest operation, a 500-plane strike at four key targets.

Nearly 500 of the huge B-29s which roared from Marianas bases concentrated on the Sasebo naval base, Japan's largest, and three other previously-unhit industrial cities on Honshu and Kyushu.

The four-pronged raid, the third in about 62 hours, hit Sasebo, Okayama, Nobeoka and Moji in the early morning darkness of Friday (Japan time). Striking at medium altitude, the Superfortresses rained more than 3,000 tons of incendiaries on the targets, bombing for the most part through a thick overcast.

Fires were observed burning in at least Okayama and Nobeoka, and Japanese broadcasts admitted that conflagrations were touched off, but claimed they were brought under control several hours later.

All four cities are important communications and industrial centers, turning out munitions and aircraft parts, Sasebo is doubly vital to the enemy war effort, since it is the empire's greatest naval base and a thriving commercial port as well as a war-industry district.

The assault cost the 21st Bomber Command a single bomber. Other American airmen were active in the region of Japan. Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' headquarters announced that Marine, Army and Navy pilots in tightening the aerial blockade of empire waters destroyed or damaged some 23 Japanese surface vessels.

Of these, at least ten enemy ships were definitely sunk, and 13 were damaged.

Planes of Fleet Air Wing One sent eight ships to the bottom and scored hits on eight others on Wednesday and Thursday in Korean and empire waters.

Marine and Army fliers of the tactical airforce based in the newly-won Okinawa area accounted

POLITICS ACROSS THE SEA

The importance to Americans of the British elections now under way cannot be over-emphasized.

Except for superficials there is an exact and deadly parallel between the economic and political situation in England and in the United States.

Both nations are trembling in the balance between free government and dictatorship—and both also are trembling in the balance between solvency and bankruptcy.

The parallel goes far beyond fundamentals. The Churchill party in England stands on almost identical ground with the body of sentiment in America which is closely associated with the Republican position, and still closer that of the fusion in Congress—Northern Republicans and Southern Democrats—which at present has the grip on national policy.

In both nations, the so-called "conservatives" are in the saddle—Churchill in Britain, the mis-named "unholy alliance" in the United States.

These groups, incidentally, are conservative only by contrast with the Left-Wing element. Actually they are near the middle of the road. The American "conservatives" position is so liberal that Henry Wallace has been making tentative attempts to leap-frog from the extreme Left to the extreme Right, uncertain in his own mind apparently whether there may not be more room on the conservative than the radical side of national politics.

But both Churchill and the non-radical group in the United States are truly conservative in that they seek to save—to "conserve"—their traditional government and economy.

Their battle lines are drawn against factions which seek to undermine constitutional democracy and overthrow what is called "capitalism," and to substitute therefor a form of class dictatorship—but dictatorship, none the less. These factions are working for the suppression of currency, credit, private ownership and competitive commerce and their replacement by total government ownership.

Many straws show which way the winds blow. It is most unusual, for example, but by no means un-natural that the Philadelphia Record has sent its kingpin political reporter to England to cover the British elections.

The Philadelphia Record has long been an organ for the so-called "labor movement"—for the Communist-blueprinted version which points directly toward what Lenin termed "dictatorship of the proletariat."

This position has not always been a happy one for the Record. Both the misadventures of Democratic politics in Pennsylvania and certain phases of the New Deal have given the editors uneasy moments.

To give one example, the Record has protested more vigorously than most Republican papers the New Deal gold policy—unwilling or unable to recognize that the gold seizure was the first and inescapable step toward economic dictatorship—toward the same goal as the various other policies which the Record supports unqualifiedly.

The Record recognizes, and finds important enough to put a star reporter personally on the story, a fact which many Americans do not see: that to all intents and purposes, Churchill is a Republican and his opposition are the New Deal Democrats.

By Suzanne Flick
HARRISBURG, June 29.—(INS)—A "sudden increase" in the number of prospective candidates for county and district school superintendents was attributed today by the Department of Public Instruction to increased salaries approved by the General Assembly.

JUNE QUOTA IS LOW

The much discussed sugar situation is today clarified by Bristol Ration Board, which has released information on the canning sugar allotments.

A spokesman for the Bristol board states that with permission to issue this month but 70 per cent of the supply given the board in June, 1944, the allotment for Bristol board was placed at 20,000 pounds this month.

So, during the present critical period, according to the local board, only 10 pounds per application was issued, regardless of whether there were two or more in a family. Where there was but one person in the household only five pounds were allotted during the emergency.

Then in July, with the allotment of Bristol board becoming higher, the board workers will go back over the applications and issue sufficient sugar to bring the amount for each person up to 15 pounds, provided 15 pounds or more has

DAVIS ON WAGES

Confronted by the problem of getting more textile production, Director of Economic Stabilization Davis has suggested a major revision in the wage floors set up under the wage-hour law. He would raise minimum hourly rates from 40 to 50 cents and would set minimum rates ranging up to 65 cents an hour in some special industries.

Mr. Davis sponsored this proposal at a recent meeting attended by representatives of the CIO and AFL textile unions and by high-ranking spokesmen for the armed services, the War Production Board, the War Labor Board and the War Manpower Commission. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss ways and means of increasing the output of textiles. Whether it produced any other ideas was not disclosed.

But Mr. Davis' solution was novel enough, considering that it came from the government official responsible for maintaining wartime wage ceilings. What Mr. Davis would do is jack up wage floors. But since ceilings and floors are the same thing in many cases, he actually put himself on record as favoring higher ceilings in the textile industry.

It is hard to know whether Mr. Davis, who believes that wages will have to rise still higher in the postwar period in order to maintain the national income at a high level, was thinking more of the immediate emergency or of the long-range problem. Either way, his initiative is not easy to reconcile with the responsibility entrusted to him. Possibly it is necessary to pay higher wages to textile workers in order to get the labor required, but Mr. Davis should be the last man to make that suggestion.

RURAL LONGEVITY

Contrary to what most Americans think, as reflected in what they do, moving to town is not the thing to do if the object is to live longer. Figures reveal that it is more healthful to live in the country than in the city.

The proof comes from the Bureau of the Census, which has compiled statistics showing that conditions were more conducive to survival in rural areas than elsewhere in the United States in 1940. The report, delayed until now because of the war, on "Age-Adjusted Death Rates in the United States, 1900-1940," is soon to be published by the bureau.

In general, survival conditions were better in rural areas, the age-adjusted rural death rate in 1940 having been 9.8. In urban places of 10,000 to 100,000 it was 11.2, and in cities of 100,000 or more it was 11.4. In the smaller urban places it was highest, 11.8. The national death rate was 10.7. Rural areas in Iowa had the lowest rate, 7.3, and the highest rate was in urban places of more than 10,000 in Arizona, 20.7.

Now that they have been warned, whether people will continue to prefer shorter life under bright lights will be answered by statistics after the 1950 census is taken.

Here is a son with a mother in need. The son earns $2,000 a year. He gives his mother $500. His mother spends the $500. Total spent by the two, $2,500. But is the total real income of the son and his mother any more than $2,000? Is it any different if the government taxes the $500 from the son and sends its own check from Washington to his mother as "social security" or to his younger brother as a soldier's pay?

The New Dealers talk learnedly of a "compensatory economy," the idea that government can actually "add" to national income. But when you take all its shucks off, the nubbin inside is nothing but old W. P. A. Although W. P. A.

did relieve distress, did it make us prosperous? "Full employment" is another of the hotches with which these fevered times have infected us. But as I have asked before, how are the 12,000,000 men in uniform "employed?" Are they creating wealth or destroying and consuming it? God forbid that anyone dampen the old Pike's-peak-or-bust spirit of America, which is probably our greatest asset of all. It is the chief coin that ever has or ever will pay

POLITICS ACROSS THE SEA

In that sense, the British election is a "local" story—to be covered almost automatically.

It is no coincidence that the Record reporter finds much which is familiar in the British election.

The technique of the factions opposing Churchill is precisely that used in many recent American elections.

This also is no coincidence. Is it to be forgotten that Sidney Hillman spent a long period in England a few months back? What else is more likely than that he gave his British fellow-travellers the benefit of his own experience in the Fourth Term election last year?

Nor is it to be forgotten that about the same time Harry Hopkins also spent a mysterious week in London, under the most rigid censorship.

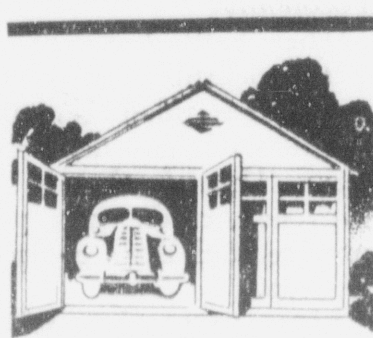

There is, as policemen and artists know quite well, such a thing as "signing one's name" by the way you do a job; often a safe-cracker can be identified solely by the way he went about it.

In the same fashion many phases of the anti-Churchill campaign bear the hallmark of the New Deal braintrusts—of political methods going back to Michelson.

What this means to America, in the last analysis, may be hard to define.

But one thing should be obvious—that talk of a "world revolution" in the future tense no longer is anything but silly.

England is voting on it this year; America will vote on it at the coming Congressional elections.

the cost of war. We must let it circulate.

But that is something we will never do freely until we see through the looney logic that the war has made us prosperous, and that we get rich by going into debt. We must stop thinking that we can grin off this war, replenish its vast harvest of waste by incantations, and bind up its wounds with political snake oil. The cure for war is work, and government policies that encourage men to work.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Samuel Gaskell
Pastor
Fallsington, Emille, Tullytown
Methodist Churches

Almighty God, who maketh the winds Thy messengers, the clouds Thy servants, flames of fire Thy ministers; we thank Thee that Thou hast in divers ways blessed, and helped those who put their trust in Thee. We, therefore, beseech Thee, for Thy continued blessing upon our land and people.

May Thy guiding hand be upon Thy servant, the President of this great nation; for all members of Congress, that the laws enacted may tend to righteousness.

Wisdom and judgment to the leaders of our armed forces; for the millions waging the fight, on land, on sea, or in the air; that victory may speedily attend their efforts. For those saddened ones who know the pangs of war; the wounded, the maimed, weakened by disease. For the widows, and the fatherless, and others plunged into grief through this terrible conflict. The millions of homeless and destitute. In Thy mercy, send us peace again O Lord. Amen.

BADENHAUSEN NINE HANDS A DEFEAT TO SCHUTTE-KOERTING

Win Enables Boiler Makers To Stay in Race For First Place

GAME ENDS AT 8 TO 2

Minster Holds "Schutteites" To Five Hits in The Game

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 29.—The Schutte-Koerting team was handed its tenth straight defeat of the Bristol Suburban League last evening on the Bensalem township high school field as it bowed to the Badenhause team, 8-2.

The win enabled the Badenhause team to stay in the run for the first half championship as it is one-half game behind the league-leading Rohm and Haas club.

The veteran Harry Minster pitched for the Badies and held the Schutteites to five blows. He walked four batters and received rather loose support.

"Teddie" Samsel started on the mound for the losers and gave way to Viegel in the fifth. Samsel was going fine until tapped by a home run with two on base by Stark. Coyne and Minster were on base when Stark delivered his four-base blow.

Leo Hibbs and Minster fattened their batting averages with the former getting two out of two and Minster, two out of three.

Manager John Hemp announced last night that one of his players, "Benny" Samsel, brother of "Teddie" Samsel, had signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers and left yesterday to report to that team.

Charter is Presented To Doylestown Lions

DOYLESTOWN, June 29.—The charter presentation meeting of the newly-organized Lions Club of Doylestown was held here Wednesday at the Doylestown Country Club with 47 members officially received. The charter was presented by District Governor Thomas S. Howland, of Philadelphia, and accepted by Chier Burgess Wilbur H. VanDine, president of the new club. Ivey R. Estep, first vice-president, was the toastmaster.

Paul Frederick, president of the Souderton Lions Club, sponsors of the Doylestown club, welcomed the new unit and presented President VanDine with several Lions emblems.

Guests of honor included: Judges Hiram H. Keller and Calvin S. Boyer, Frank L. Worthington, president of Kiwanis, and William C. Varcoe, president of the Rotary Club of Doylestown.

been asked for. This is with assurance given that the sugar is to be used for canning purposes only. Those individuals who plan to can quantities of fruit that will take smaller amounts than 15 pounds per person will be allotted in all the total number of pounds originally asked for. Fifteen pounds per person is the maximum.

June was a "low" month last year it is said, and with allotments of sugar in July increased in 1944, the amount for July of this year will consequently be higher and the situation will become improved for the home canners.

It is announced it will not be necessary for those who have sent in applications to apply a second time.

positions." Dr. Klonower said. "The newly-enacted salary schedules, which increase minimum wages of superintendents, has undoubtedly stimulated interest."

The Legislature fixed $4000 as the minimum annual wage for county superintendents in counties with populations of less than 45,000; $4500 for areas with between 45,000 and 150,000 residents; and $5000 where populations exceed 150,000. District superintendents must receive at least $4000 in communities of less than 20,000 persons, while minimum wages in localities with larger populations are pegged at $5500 a year.

In order to qualify for the positions, applicants must be college graduates credited with 30 hours of post-graduate work in administrative and supervisory courses, he said. An additional six years of teaching experience is required, three of which must be acquired in advisory positions, he added.

"This requirement is about as high as that of any other state in the country," Klonower stated. "It assures a degree of competence which taxpayers have every reason to expect."

Six Pennsylvania colleges and universities have developed specific training courses for superintendents, he added. They are the Universities of Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Temple and Bucknell, Lehigh and Pennsylvania State Colleges.

tary law and it is the intent of the department to enforce these regulations so far as reasonable," he stated.

Under the regulations, each establishment will be inspected at least once every three months and all municipalities except Pittsburgh and Philadelphia will be required to submit reports to the Department within 24 hours after the inspections required for licenses were made. Examinations will include bacteriological tests of utensils.

Oysters and clams, he explained, must be served in the original shell, garbage and rubbish kept in separate containers, and the walls of places where food is prepared must be of light color.

In addition, the garbage chute must not leak and must be constructed so it may be taken apart and cleaned daily, Campbell added. No animals except "seeing eye" dogs will be permitted inside establishments.

Toilet rooms must be provided for employees, he said, while the covering of floors with sawdust will be outlawed. Sawdust may be used, however, for sweeping floors. The law prohibits the employment of typhoid or diphtheria carriers or persons infected with tuberculosis or syphilis in a transmissible stage.

The Board sanctioned regulations proposed by the Department to assume sanitary spoons and dippers under legislations which become effective January 1, Campbell stated. After that date all straws must be wrapped.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Are your reels oiled and have you taken the kinks out of your fishing lines? You'd better get busy if you haven't because in just two more days the bass and pickerel season opens!

This Sunday, July 1st, marks the opening of Pennsylvania's major game-fish season, and locally, it will see an exodus to favorite fishing spots of more anglers than for any other season.

Two stretches of water in this section will take the brunt of the plugs, bugs, flies, spoons, streamers, spinners and live bait that will be offered by fishermen.

The first, and probably more important of the two, is the Canal. From Bristol to Morrisville there are many fine stretches, although above Bristol the water is low and there is an excessive surface growth which will make plugging difficult.

Silver Lake is the second body of water that should produce some nice fish. Although not too heavily stocked since it was rebuilt, here is 55 acres of accessible, open water that holds some big bass and pickerel.

Season officially opens at 12 o'clock midnight on Saturday night. No doubt many anglers will be on hand for the opening, since it falls on a weekend. Expect to work a stretch of the Canal myself shortly after midnight.

Surface plugs will work best at night if you're using a bait casting rod. Favorite of many fishermen is the Jitterbug plug. Others use the Heddon Crazy Crawler with great success. If you plan to use a fly rod there are several floating bass bugs that will probably take fish for you.

Minimum size on bass is nine inches and a pickerel must be at least twelve inches long before you can drop him into your creel. Daily limit is six of each of the two species. Handle the undersized fellows with care when you put them back so that they will be there next season.

Two local sporting goods houses, Auto Boys and Diamond Sporting Goods, both on Mill street, have an excellent assortment of most popular bass lures.

Smallmouth bass fishing in the upper Delaware . . . since this season opens on June 15th for bass and pike, Bill and Harry Bossler and I gave it a try last Sunday in the section above Wilford.

The river was high and very dirty from recent rains. As a result, the natives told us, very few bass were being caught because of the extra fishhood being washed downstream.

At the end of the day we had six smallmouth bass, one rock bass, four fatfish and seven eels. None of the fish were large. Night crawlers and hellgramites proved to be the best baits.

Federation meeting . . . the July meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs will be held Monday evening, July 9th, when delegates from clubs all over the county gather at the Monument Restaurant, Main and Court streets, Doylestown. The meeting, originally scheduled for next Monday evening, was postponed by Chairman Allan Woolf, Morrisville, because of the opening of bass season and the July 4th holiday.

CERVELLERO, IN TIP-TOP FORM, HURLS A WINNER

Pitches Rohm & Haas Nine To 3-Hit Shut-Out Victory

FINAL SCORE IS 3 TO 0

Only 24 Batters Faced Cervellero in Seven Innings

Paul Cervellero was in excellent form last evening on the Maple Beach diamond as he hurled the Rohm and Haas team to a three-hit shut-out triumph over the Diamond Sporting team in a Bristol Suburban League game.

The hits, all singles, were made by Mandio, Chickiletti and Ludwig, and represented the only Diamond players to reach base as Paul did not issue a free ticket to first. In fact, only twenty-four players faced Cervellero in the seven innings.

"Cy" Bachman, who was on the hill for the losing team, pitched well enough to win an ordinary ball game but lost out in the second frame when the winners counted their trio of tallies. He held the chemical mixers to six hits.

Ritter started that second frame by reaching base on an error by Mandio. Ritter scored on Trapp's triple and Trapp crossed when Monachello hit safely to left. DiTanna struck out and Cervellero reached base on a fielder's choice. Monachello going to third. On Killian's fly to left, Monachello counted.

The victory enabled the Rohm & Haas team to maintain its one-half game edge on first half as it has a postponed game to be played with Diamond. League Advisor, Thomas Juno, has scheduled this game for next Tuesday evening.

papan. The Japs have steadfastly maintained that Allied naval vessels have been pounding the area, last major enemy-held oil center on Borneo's east coast. According to the enemy version, the shelling is in preparation for new landings on the rich East Indies island.

MacArthur had nothing to say of bombardment of that area by his ships, saying merely that naval units of the fleet entered Makassar Strait where they were attacked by Jap torpedo planes. Three of the aircraft were downed. Makassar Strait washes Balikpapan's shore.

and separates Borneo from the Celebes.

In addition, MacArthur announced another earth-shaking aerial bombing of Balikpapan. He said that his heavy and medium bombers—together with fighters—hit that oil port and other targets on Borneo with 286 tons of bombs.

Jesselton, on the northwest coast of Borneo, also was strafed by naval vessels. Jesselton lies to the northeast of Beaufort, a Jap strong-point which the Australian Ninth Division was known to be approaching and which the Melbourne radio already was listing as captured.

The Australian broadcast said also that the Allied forces which recently captured Seria and Miri oilfields had linked up, while other Aussies on Tarakan island had returned the oilfields there to operation.
